Missouri's race to provide patients in need with medical cannabis just got more competitive. Today's announcement of another $280,000 raised by Missourians for Patient Care (MPC) places a clear lead change among several initiative petitions vying for the November 2018 ballot box.

With only nine weeks remaining, ballot committees must find finishing resources to fuel tens of thousands of signatures that remain to be verified for every ballot committee in circulation. This comparison chart shows the fundraising and/or loaned activity posted to the Missouri Ethics Commission since the first of January until March 2nd, 2018:

The Missouri Patient Care Act, sponsored by MPC, also holds a distinct advantage in requiring 62,999 fewer signatures than the constitutional mandate from New Approach Missouri. MPC now holds a nearly two to one fundraising advantage since January 1st compared against single donor loans with interest charged to the Find the Cures committee.

"Our singular focus is on providing patients with a reliable yet regulated industry as quickly as possible," said Travis H. Brown. "One hundred percent of our petitioners' time is dedicated to the laser focus on certifying this measure to the ballot."
